

Leave new jersey's DNC list alone. There is ample constitutional support for a state to enact regulations on business activity as part of its police power that stronger than the federal government. A prime example is the Blue Sky law regarding stock issues. There's far too much FCC kow-towing to big business as it is now.